Claim rejections-35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Claims 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Carloganu et al. (U.S. 6,226,749), "Carloganu", herein after

Regarding to claim 15:

Carloganu discloses the invention substantially as claimed, including a method, which can be implemented in a computer hardware or software code for use in an encrypting key pad module comprising:

Receiving a file containing: (I) instructions, (II) data, and (III) a reference to an encryption key: (Carloganu discloses a command interpreter of security module which receives and segregates “the commands” those are equivalent to “instructions” and data: figure 11, items 150, 153, 155; column 11, lines 38-54, lines 59-61; column 12, lines 61-67; column 15, lines 24-30, 47-62; column 16, lines 1-35; column 20, lines 64-66)

Using the received instructions to process the received data and the referenced encryption key to derive a new key: (Carloganu discloses the command is executed and “the appropriate data” which is equivalent to “encryption key” is returned: figure 11, items 150, 153,155; column 11, lines 38-54, lines 59-61; column 12, lines 61-67; column 15, lines 24-30, 47-62; column 16, lines 1-35; column 20, lines 64-66)

Regarding to claim 16:

Carloganu discloses a method as discuss in claim 15, which further includes storing the new key in the encrypting keypad module: (Carloganu discloses “a security module includes a keypad” which performs function of “the encrypting keypad module”. Carloganu discloses a command interpreter receives and segregates the commands from instructions program and the data from keypad. After the commands are executed, “the appropriate data” which is equivalent to “new key” is returned: abstract, lines 1-2; column 10, lines 26-30; column 11, lines 38-54, lines 59-61; column 12, lines 61-67; column 15, lines 24-30, 47-62; column 16, lines 1-35; column 20, lines 64-66; figure 11, items 150, 153,155).

Regarding to claim 17:

Carloganu discloses a method as discuss in claim 15, which further includes interpreting the received instructions to generate code for implementing the instructions: (Carloganu discloses a command interpreter of security module which receives and segregates “the commands” those are equivalent to “instruction” and data. The commands are executed and the appropriate data is returned: figure 11, items 150, 153,155; column 11, lines 38-54, lines 59-61; column 12, lines 61-67; column 15, lines 24-30, 47-62; column 16, lines 1-35; column 20, lines 64-66)

Claim rejections-35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 18 is rejected under 35 U.S.C 103(a) as being un-patentable over Carloganu in view of Drummond B (U.S. 6,598,023)

Regarding to claim 18:

Carloganu discloses the invention substantially as disclosed in claim 15, but does not explicitly teach wherein the file has a structure comprising tagged commands and data

However Drummond discloses “a message” which is equivalent to “a file” which includes “documents” those are equivalent to “data” and “tags” those are equivalent to “tagged commands”, see (Drummond: abstract, lines 1-6; column 2, lines 42-62; column 5, lines 27-40; column 6, lines 33-58)

Thus, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine Drummond’s ideas of using a message which includes data and tag with Carloganu's system in order to use the tags and codes (instructions) to define and operate the documents, see (Drummond; column 2, lines 42-62).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
